Whitehall, May 29, 1798.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are Copies, have been received from His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland by his Grace the Duke of Portland, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Dublin Caſtle, May 24, 1798.

My Lord,

THE Intelligence contained in my laſt Diſpatches muſt have prepared your Grace to hear of ſome Attempts being made by the Rebels to carry their traitorous Deſigns into Execution before every Poſſibility ſibility of Succeſs was deſtroyed by the vigorous Meaſures which have lately been purſued.

For ſome Days Orders had been iſſued by the Leaders of the United Iriſhmen, directing their Partizans to be ready at a Moment's Notice, as the Meaſures of Government made it neceſſary for them to act immediately. Yeſterday Information was received, that it was probable the City and the adjacent Diſtricts would riſe in the Evening; ſubſequent Information confirmed this Intelligence. In conſequence of which, Notice was ſent to the General Officers in the Neighbourhood, and Dublin was put in a State of Preparation. The Meaſures taken in the Metropolis prevented any Movement whatſoever, but I am concerned to acquaint your Grace, that Acts of open Rebellion were committed in the Counties of Dublin, Meath and Kildare. About Half paſt Two o'Clock this Morning, there was a regular Attack made by a Rebel Force upon the Town of Naas, where Lord Gosford commanded, with Part of the Armagh Militia, and Detachments of the 4th Dragoon Guards, and Ancient Britons. The Rebels conſiſted of about a Thouſand Men, armed with Muſkets and Pikes, and they made their Attack with Regularity, but were ſoon repulſed by the Armagh Militia, and then charged and purſued by the 4th Dragoon Guards and Ancient Britiſh, and I underſtand their Loſs amounted to near 200. Two Officers and a few Privates have been loſt of His Majeſty's Forces. It gives me pain to relate that a ſmall Detachment at the Town of Proſperous has been ſurprized, and a Detachment at the Village of Clare cut their Way to Naas, with ſome Loſs. There was alſo an Attack on a ſmall Party of the 9th Dragoons, near Kilkullen, which ſuffered; but in the Courſe of the Day, General Dundas was enabled to come up with a conſiderable Body of the Rebels near the Hills of Killcullen, where they were entirely routed with the Loſs of Two Hundred Men. There were alſo ſeveral Bodies collected laſt Night in different Parts near Dublin, which were attacked by the Rathfarnham Cavalry, and by a Detachment of the 5th Dragoons, and diſperſed with ſome Loſs, and ſome Priſoners and Horſes were taken. A Rebel Party however aſſembled at the Borders of the County of Dublin, near Dunboyne, and overpowered ſome Conſtables, and afterwards took the Baggage of Two Companies, guarded by a ſmall Party of the Reay Fencibles, coming to Town, and have, during the Courſe of this Day, committed many outrages, ſeveral of them however have been killed, but the Body remains undiſperſed. The City is tranquil, and I have no doubt will remain ſo this Evening, and I truſt that To-morrow we ſhall entirely diſperſe that Body of the Inſurgents which has not been entirely routed To-day.

I muſt add, that the Mail Coach going to the North was attacked, within a few Miles of Dublin, by a ſelect Body, well armed; the Paſſengers were taken and the Coach burned. The Galway Mail-Coach was alſo attacked in the Town of Lucan, but the Rebel Party was driven off before its Deſtruction was effected.

In conſequence of this deſperate Conduct of the Rebellious, I iſſued the incloſed Proclamation, with the Advice of the Privy Council.

I ſhall in a future Diſpatch detail to your Grace the particular Services which have been performed, but at preſent I am not furniſhed with regular Reports, except from Lord Gosford, who appears to have acted with great Firmneſs and Deciſion.

I am, &c. &c.

CAMDEN.

His Grace the Duke of Portland,
&c. &c. &c.

Extract of a Letter from Lord Viſcount Gosford, Colonel of the Armagh Militia, and Major Wardle, of the Ancient Britiſh Light Dragoons, to Lieutenant General Lake, dated Naas, Thurſday Morning, Eight o'Clock, 24th May, 1798.

THIS Morning about Half paſt Two o'Clock, a Dragoon from an Out poſt came in, and informed Major Wardle, of the Ancient Britiſh, that a very conſiderable armed Body were approaching rapidly upon the Town. The whole Garriſon were inſtantly under Arms, and took up their Poſitions according to a Plan previouſly formed, in caſe of ſuch an Event happening. They made the Attack upon our Troops, poſted near the Gaol, with great Violence, but were repulſed. They then made a general Attack in almoſt every Direction, as they had got Poſſeſſion of almoſt every Avenue into the Town. They continued to engage the Troops for near Three Quarters of an Hour, when they gave Way, and fled on all Sides. The Cavalry immediately took Advantage of their Confuſion, charged in almoſt every Direction, and killed a great Number of them. A great Quantity of Arms and Pikes were taken; and within this Half Hour many Hundreds more were brought in, found in Pits near the Town, together with Three Men, with Green Cockades, all of whom were hanged in the public Street. We took another Priſoner, whom we have ſpared, in conſequence of his having given us Information that will enable us to purſue theſe Rebels; and from this Man we learn that they were above a Thouſand ſtrong. They were commanded, as this Man informs us, by Michael Reynolds, who was well mounted, and dreſſed in Yeoman Uniform, but unfortunately made his Eſcape; his Horſe we have got.

When we are able to collect further Particulars you ſhall be made acquainted with them. About Thirty Rebels were killed in the Streets; in the Fields we imagine above an Hundred; their Bodies have not yet been brought together.

It is impoſſible to ſay too much of the Cavalry and Infantry; their Conduct was examplary throughout.

By the LORD LIEUTENANT and COUNCIL of IRELAND.

A PROCLAMATION,

CAMDEN.

HIS Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, by and with the Advice of the Privy Council, has iſſued Orders to ALL the General Officers commanding His Majeſty's Forces, to puniſh all Perſons acting, aiding, or in any Manner aſſiſting in the Rebellion which now exiſts within this Kingdom, and has broken out in the moſt daring and violent Attacks upon His Majeſty's Forces, according to Martial Law, either by Death or otherwiſe, wiſe, as to them ſhall ſeem right and expedient for the Puniſhment and Suppreſſion of all Rebels in their ſeveral Diſtricts; of which all His Majeſty's Subjects are hereby required to take Notice.

Given at the Council Chamber in Dublin, the Twenty-fourth Day of May, One thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety-eight.

Dublin Caſtle, May 24, 1798.

My Lord,

I Have the Honor to ſend your Grace a Copy of a Meſſage which I ſent this Day to both Houſes of Parliament, in conſequence of the Proclamation referred to in my other Diſpatch of this Date; and I requeſt you will lay the ſame before His Majeſty.

Both Houſes of Parliament have unanimouſly voted Addreſſes in Anſwer to the ſaid Meſſage, which I ſhall have the Honour to tranſmit to you Tomorrow, with an Account of what paſſed in each Houſe upon the Occaſion.

I have the Honor to be, with the greateſt Truth and Reſpect,

My Lord,

Your Grace's moſt obedient humble Servant,

Dublin Caſtle, May 25, 1798, Half paſt Three, P. M.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant-General Dundas to Lord Viſcount Caſtlereagh, dated Naas, May 25, 1798.

IN Addition to the Account which I had the Honor of ſending you Yeſterday, I have the Satisfaction to inform your Lordſhip, that about Two P. M. Yeſterday I marched out again to attack the Rebels, who had aſſembled in great Force on the North Side of the Liffey, and were advancing towards Kilcullen Bridge: They occupied the Hills on the Left of the Road leading to Dublin, the Road itſelf and the Fields highly incloſed, on the Right. The Attack began between Three and Four; was made with Gallantry; the Infantry forcing the Enemy on the Road, and driving them from the Hills on the Left; the Cavalry, with equal Succeſs, cutting off their Retreat. The Affair ended ſoon after Four. The Slaughter was conſiderable for ſuch an Action; One Hundred and Thirty lay dead No Priſoners.

I have the further Satisfaction of ſtating to your Lordſhip, that His Majeſty's Troops did not ſuffer in either Killed or Wounded. The Rebels left great Quantities of all Kinds of Arms behind them, and fled in all Directions.

This Morning all is in perfect Quietneſs. General Wilford, from Kildare, joined me laſt Night; an Officer with whom I ſerve with unſpeakable Satisfaction.

The Troops of every Deſcription, both Officers and Men, ſhewed a Degree of Gallantry which it was difficult to reſtrain within prudent Bounds.

Captain La Touche's Corps of Yeomanry diſtinguiſhed themſelves in a high Stile.
